And, in some ways, an even stronger one to ask for help.

Dementia is difficult for everyone. There is no question. There is also no question that you are doing everything you can to help your loved one. But what if there was someone who could really help relieve that stress? Someone who could provide help for the whole family? Your loved one can still find meaning and contentment in each new day, and you can still enjoy every moment you have with them.

We can help. Introducing memory care services at Sagebrook, coming this summer. Call us today at (425) 641-4900 for more information.
