EASY-TO-READ COMPARISON GRIDS:

An added feature of the guide are the housing and homecare comparison grids which compare specific details about each company’s services, amenities and pricing. This valuable tool is used not only by seniors and their families to “comparison shop,” but also by case managers and other professionals.

Content includes: complete addresses, phone numbers, license types and other helpful details to assist in making informed decisions. All licensed communities and agencies are included and updated every 6 months.

Sponsors are highlighted with their ad page in red for quick reference. Print sponsors also receive a complimentary web ad with links, logo and description on RetirementConnection.com.

▲ CLEAR AND CONCISE SECTIONS

An important element for the shelf life of any publication is to make sure the reader finds all they need in one resource. The more than 100 topics of information are separated into clear, easy to find, and color coded sections.

Compare the Value

A COMPLETE PACKAGE
 When comparing pricing, don’t simply look at the cost of a one time ad. Compare “how much will it cost to run the ad for a year?” Our annual rate includes print, website and community. We also include web links, event postings, networking and marketing support. “Are these additional costs with other publications?”

TARGETED DEMOGRAPHICS
 Our readers are 50 and older, those assisting parents and planning for themselves. Compare the readership of a publication, “Are you reaching your target market: the age, income and geographic area?” Compare shelf life “How long will your marketing dollars endure, is the publication a resource or a throw-away piece?”

FOCUSED GEOGRAPHIC AREA
 If you need to target a specific city, why waste the distribution and budget to reach those outside your service area. “Are the readers within the geographic area that you typically draw customers?” Our staff has a strong local presence and fosters connections with key referral sources.
